

Dear Volunteer Leaders,

Coming in to VenueConnect, we are doing better than budget expectations by about 100k, which is an update from the end of May report in the Financial section of this report. We have saved on some salary and travel costs and performed better than expected with the building, so far this year. Also, VMS performed better than budget. As a result, we have been able to increase the operating reserves back to 90 days or better.

However, VenueConnect performance is lagging. We are currently 90k behind on our registration goal and about $110k away from our goal for exhibits/sponsorships. Over all, we are 85k short from where we were this time last year on revenue, and 198k short to goal.

With that being said, we have managed expenses so that we should fall short of budgeted profit by just 55k by finding a few ways to keep our costs down without affecting the attendee experience. Primarily, our partners at Sodexo, PSAV and the Baltimore Convention Center have really stepped up to help us close the gap. We very much appreciate their support, and the support of all of our VC partners!

Also, we signed the deal with the Association of Professional Venue Management this week, a new association based in Europe. For a list of their current venue members, click on this link <http://a-pvm.com/memberlist/> and here <http://a-pvm.com/board-members/> to see their board members. They will have 2 representatives at the meeting, Simon Smith, President of A-PVM, with Wembley Stadium, and Paul Anderson, VP of A-PVM. Our partners from AMEREF will be in attendance as well, with Gonzalo Escamez and Polo Farias-Barlow, at the least. As usual, our friends from VMA will be there too, Steve Rohmer and Trevor Dohnt. VMA and IAVM have agreed to renew our agreement once again, and we appreciate their on-going partnership!

Last, we are reaching out to the National Association of Theater Owners to offer our Active Shooter training to them for a regional meeting they are holding here in Texas. We called their CEO today to offer our support, any way we can.

See you in Baltimore!

Operations

Financials

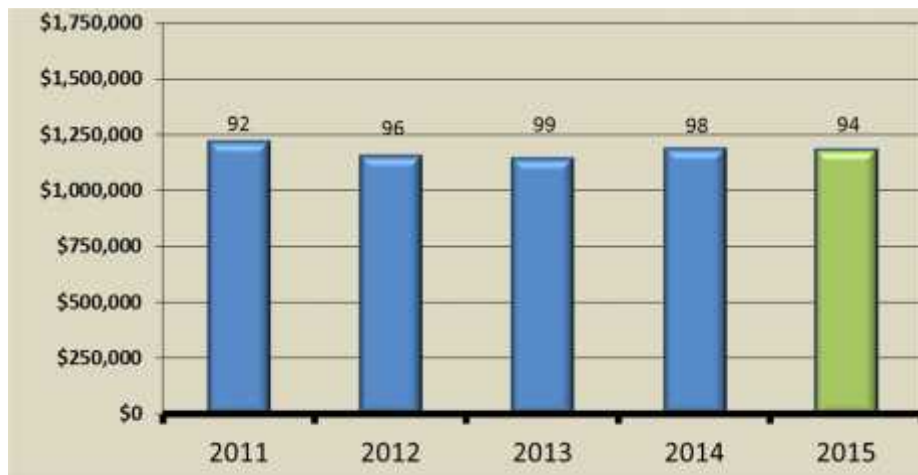

Through May the Association has a net deficit of $124K on revenue of $44K compared to a budgeted deficit of $199K on revenue of $471K. The $75K net deficit improvement is a result of lower operating expenses primarily related to labor and travel costs. This positive net profit variance will likely decrease after VenueConnect as both registration and exhibit revenue are running below expectations.

Looking forward, one key financial indicator is deferred revenue for membership dues. As of May the deferred balance was $699,000 which is $20,000 higher than the prior year total of $679,000. This comparison tells us that if this trend continued we can expect an increase in future membership revenue.

The March 2015 audit report is final and the Association generated a profit of $65,000 compared to a budgeted surplus of $84,000. The net profit of $65,000 enables the Association to be in compliance with the building loan debt covenants.

Cash and Investment Balance

As of May the cash & investment balance was $1,185,000 and represented 94 days of operating expenses compared to a target of 90 days. Last year at this time the Association's cash and investment balance represented 98 days of operating expenses.

Operations/ IT

Rob Price started July 6th as the Director of Web Development. His web development expertise will enable the Association to move forward with key projects including: new buyers guide, online learning center and VDS development. In addition to project related opportunities, he will also focus on the continual improvement of the web's overall user experience.

Education

Professional Development, Meetings and Events

Trained Crowd Manager Live:

The first course for crowd managers to be endorsed by the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), TCM Live provides an interactive environment where both the classroom instruction practical venue experience can be completed in one day. A program overview was provided to AMEREFF in Mexico who are requesting training for their industry.

Venue Management School:

Venue Management School 2015 had a total of 144 Year-1 students, 119 Year-2 students, and 34 Graduate Students. Total attendance: 297 students

Academy for Venue Safety & Security:

As IAVM prepares to administer the Academy for Venue Safety and Security 2015, a committee is being established to represent and advocate for safety & security interests of the venue management industry. The focus is to work collaboratively with staff to encourage and equip professionals in the discipline of life safety and security operations and management. The Venue Safety & Security Committee members will serve a term of one year, which may be renewed for up to four years of total service on the committee.

IAVM Sponsored Training:

The Culwell Center located in Garland, Texas was subjected to a Terrorist Attack which has prompted IAVM to take a pro-active approach and work collaboratively with the Department of Homeland Security to provide training to Culwell staff and assigned security detail.

The training will be specific to:
 Situational Awareness (IAVM)
 Active Shooter (DHS)

Certification:

The exam bank for the CVP has been vetted and approximately 300 questions collected for the multiple choice exam. The Certification Board will complete the passmark process for each question and the exams will be self-monitored during each of our conferences/meetings. The new Certified Venue Professional (CVP) program will launch at VenueConnect in Baltimore. The new information packet, standards document, and application are currently on the web for review.

Research

Since its inception, VenueDataSource has generated $56,014 in revenue for the association. Earlier this calendar year, we obtained the means to send our own independent email blasts and used it to promote the products and services offered. In addition, we have been successfully using social media for the same purpose. These are the reasons we theorize that our sales in the first 4 months of FY2016 is already more than half the sales achieved in FY2015.

The second quarter of 2015 is proving to be as busy as the first quarter for IAVM research.

- As indicated above, we are helping to promote the products and VDS program via our independent email capabilities and social media efforts.
- The Safety and Security and Capital Funding Reports were completed, distributed to all participants and promoted for sale.
- The Business Barometer Report for the 1st Quarter of 2015 was completed and will be issued shortly. Panel refreshment efforts were concluded and surveys for the 2nd Quarter will begin on July 27th with the refreshed panel.
- Our 2015 Technology Survey was designed, executed and completed in the first quarter of 2015. The report was completed and distributed to all participants. We will begin promoting this report very shortly.
- We designed a fairly comprehensive survey on Food and Beverages which will launch on July 20th.

Marketing & Communications

As the 2015 VenueConnect conference became solidified, marketing worked on new communications and branding for several, exciting components of the program. Working with the Foundation, we assisted in branding and launching the new UpStart: Emerging Leaders Experience. We also helped develop and execute a communication plan for the new 30|UNDER|30 program, highlighting each of the inaugural recipients through video and blog spotlights that ran over the course of three months. As an extension of the communication plan, dozens of local media outlets were notified of recipients in their areas, leading to several, meaningful media impressions that highlighted local venues and the young professionals being awarded.

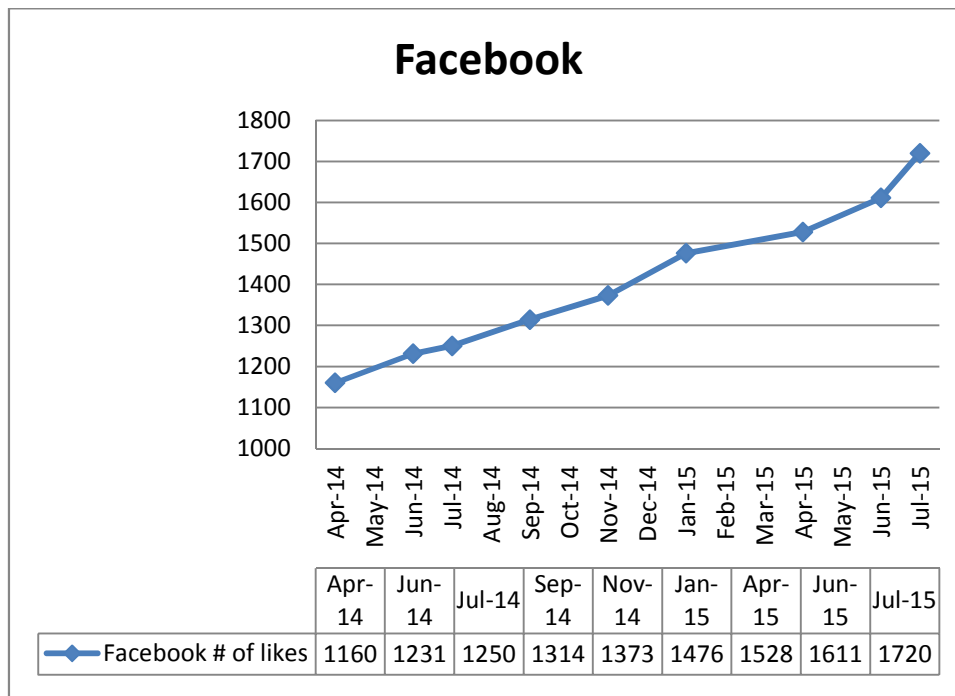

Other VenueConnect efforts included emails, newsletter stories, social pushes, and a conference mailer highlighting the 2015 line-up of sessions, events, and speakers.

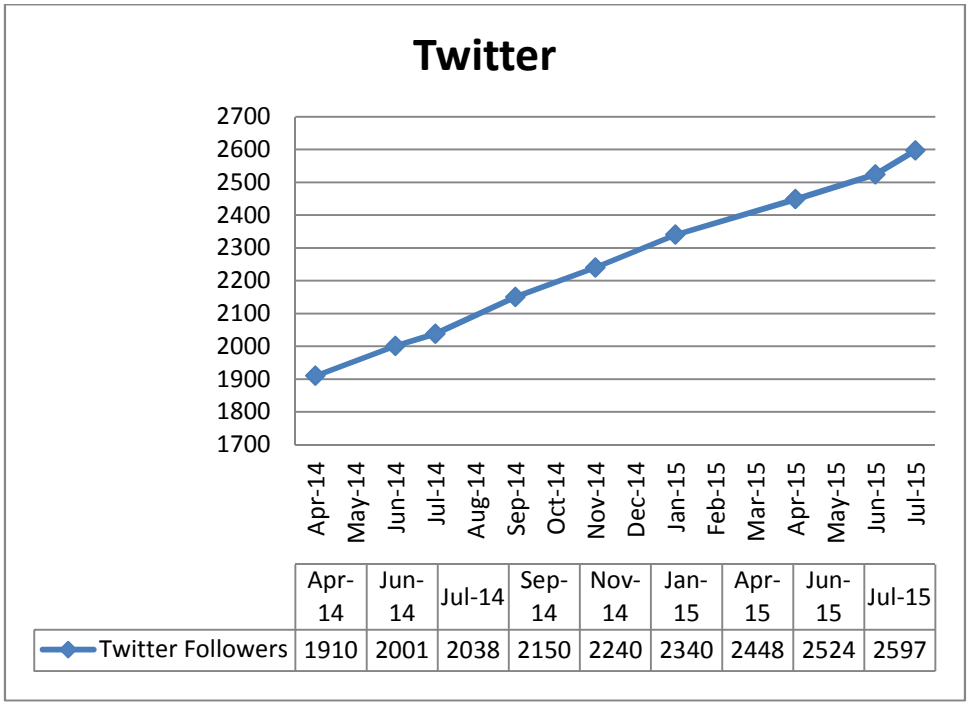

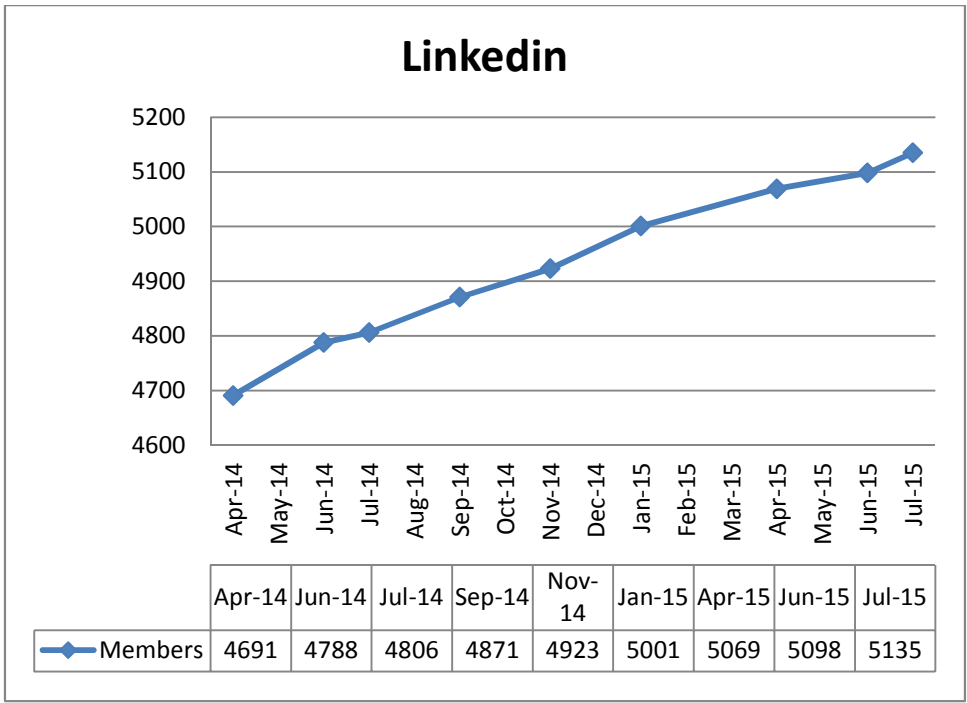

In support of education, marketing worked on two significant webinars (Civil Unrest; Interview with John Wilborn), both breaking previous attendance records. We assisted in branding and marketing the presentations, as well as coordinating the visual materials used by each of the participants. As a supplement to these webinars, we worked with the meetings team to update the websites and registration pages for both AVSS and GuestX 2016. This enabled us to include within both presentations a mention of IAVM's safety and security programming, an important impression opportunity with a relevant audience of members and non-members.

Our team's senior editor, Jason Hensel, teamed up with Greg Wolfe to introduce a new live podcast, The Venue. Debuting in May, the podcast pulls from active VenueNet forum topics, creating a live conversation with member-guests and call-in participants. Episode 2 was recorded live at VMS 2015, and Episode 4 will be recorded live at VenueConnect.

Periscope emerged as a new live-streaming social channel back in the Spring. The marketing team began exploring the tool, with a test stream taking place at VMS 2015. Additional streams will be explored at VenueConnect and will be accessible via the IAVM twitter handle, @IAVMWHQ.

Recruitment/Retention Efforts:

Staff participated in the Green Sports Alliance Conference in Chicago, June 29-July 2 to recruit new members and exhibitors.

Staff finalized a new affinity program with APPI Energy. APPI provides consulting services that will ultimately reduce our members’ energy expenses, electrical and natural gas. An audit of existing services (a current bill) will reveal opportunities for potential savings our venues can save by utilizing one of their providers. Suppliers include companies such as Hudson Energy, Champion, Liberty Energy, etc. There are 13 states that are deregulated which gives APPI the ability to transition their existing services to cheaper plans once their existing contracts expire. APPI will exhibit at VenueConnect. APPI works with 143 associations.

The Affinity Program:

- The audit consists of reviewing existing energy bills
- APPI will advise what provider can provide the most cost-savings
- In situations where a venue is interested in participating but is under contract with an existing supplier, a contract may still be agreed upon
- Once the existing contractual obligation ends, APPI’s provider will go into effect after the expiration date

VenueConnect Foundation Event – UpStart: Emerging Leaders Experience

The IAVM Foundation, in partnership with Western Kentucky University (WKU), has developed a phenomenal program designed to provide unprecedented networking and education for students and young professionals beginning their careers in venue management. On Saturday, August 1, before the full VenueConnect conference begins, young professionals and students will learn career skills from venue industry leaders, make new connections with executives from major venues, and gain fresh professional development insights through a packed schedule of customized sessions and events.

Recently added to the UpStart program is the opening keynote, Doug Sandler. Author of Nice Guys Finish First (all UpStart attendees are walking away with a copy of his book!), Sandler brings with him more than 20 years of experience in the entertainment world with thousands of clients. He'll tackle the massive threat that not caring poses to companies and systems, and will dive into the art of building relationships with clients versus simply closing deals.

Other session highlights include “Thinking Outside the Box,” lead by Mark Gnatovic, senior vice president of SearchWide; “How Our Generation Can Use LinkedIn For Professional Branding,” lead by Whitney Harmel, director of sales for Brandability; and “Advancing Your Career,” lead by Bryan Kaminski, senior manager of university recruiting and programs for Under Armour. Attendees will also participate in a new speed-networking program, “The Game Changer,” where they will get crucial face-to-face time and personal introductions to major venue industry leaders.

UpStart is free for students, young professionals, and faculty, and is made possible through the support of IAVM members, venue industry leaders, and other partners that have supported the IAVM Foundation’s Build An Amazing Future campaign.

Currently we have 82 registered and paid attendees.

VenueConnect Foundation Event – Legacy Project

The IAVM Foundation Legacy Project is an opportunity for members to work together with industry peers to leave a lasting legacy of caring and support in our host city. This year’s project we are teaming up with the United Way for a Stone Soup project.

As the Stone Soup story goes, a stranger enters a village. After being told by all the villagers that there is no food to eat, he puts a pot of water on a fire to boil and places a big stone into the pot. The villagers grow curious. One by one, they begin contributing one ingredient each, until they have assembled a hearty soup for all to feast on.

The United Way movement was founded on this concept: that each one of us can give, advocate, and volunteer to improve conditions in our communities.

This year, with the record-breaking number of volunteers already signed up, VenueConnect attendees will be making over 200 casserole dishes that will create 1,600 individual servings and feed up to 125 families.
